STATE GUARD OFFICERS TESTIFY

Single Committee Believes It Has Proved the Charges Made—Capt.
Fried in Denial.

Charleston, W. Va., June 11.—War time rule in the coal strike region of West Virginia was described before the senate mine investigating committee here today. After three military officers had described conditions, the committee expressed itself satisfied as to the charge "that the officers of West Virginia had been tried and convicted in violation of the constitution and laws of the United States."

Two members of the military commission, which at three different times assumed absolute domination over some 160 square miles of West Virginia territory, testified this afternoon. They were Capt. Charles R. Morgan, a lawyer, and Major James L. Pratt, who was president of the second military court which took charge of the strike district. Both told the committee that their proceedings were conducted without regard to the civil laws of the state; that they arrested, tried and convicted offenders in the strike zone without recourse to process of the civil courts and without submission without regard to the limitations imposed by the constitution of West Virginia.

"We considered the entire district was in a state of warfare," said Captain Morgan with military frankness, "and we acted according to the provisions of the United States laws in time of war."

"My understanding was," said Captain Morgan, "that during this state of insurrection which prevailed, the constitution of the State of West Virginia had been suspended by acts of the military which were tantamount to destroying property. We believed these men had suspended the constitution and that in order to perpetuate the state of West Virginia and restore the constitution we were justified in using extreme measures."

Captain Morgan stated that the military commission believed its authority was unlimited under the general order issued by Governor Glavin, which provided the military commission "to be substituted for the civil courts of the district covered by the military order." He said that all officers and men of the military and all officers of the civil law, as in and to the punishment of the military commission, were to be treated as offenders under the military law, and in punishment thereof the military commission could impose such penalties as it saw fit, whether heavier than those imposed by the civil law, as in and to the punishment of the military commission.

Both Captain Morgan and Major Pratt asserted that the commission did not feel limited by the statutory provisions of the military order for officers and men of the military and all officers of the civil law, as in and to the punishment of the military commission.

Pictures of convicted men. A dozen pictures of men clad in prison clothing and with heads shaved, were identified by the military officers who had been sentenced by the military commission and sent to jail. One was given a sentence of seven and a half years for perjury, several others were given from five to ten years for "obstructing justice."

"We have no intention of other civil process presented against these men," asserted Major Pratt, "they were arrested on charges and specifications prepared by the judge advocate general."

Senator Smith stated that Captain Morgan, as a lawyer, believed there was no appeal from the decision of the commission, it approved by the governor, except to the supreme court of the United States.

"You could arrest a man for any crime, and your estimation was an offense," declared Senator Smith.

"Yes, except that when the governor's proclamation specified as statutory offenses."

Returned Sentenced Verdict. Senator Martin asserted that after the military officers had heard the testimony in a case in which the military officers were the defendants, they returned a verdict, and sent them to the governor.

"Then the poor devil did not know what was done with him until he was sent to the penitentiary," declared Senator Smith.

"That's right," answered Captain Morgan, and the committee smiled. It was developed that as many as forty-five accused men were tried at one time by the military commission.

"There was no opportunity given a man to secure a fair trial on the discovery of new evidence, no opportunity to give bail, no possibility of the issuance of a stay of execution," declared Senator Smith, "and the military officers were the defendants."

"Yes," answered Captain Morgan, "if you had sentenced a man to

SLASHES HIS THROAT

ROBERT E. GAGHAN, BANKER
OF DALLAS, HAS VIOLENT DEATH.

Razor With Which He Is Shaving Is the Weapon—Had Nervous Breakdown.

Dallas, June 11.—Robert E. Gaghan, perhaps one of the best known of the younger men in the banking business in Dallas, died suddenly at an early hour Wednesday morning. He slashed his throat with a razor while shaving when found by his brother, Herman Gaghan, who was staying at the house with him, the unfortunate man was breathing his last and died before a physician could be called.

Recently Mr. Gaghan had suffered a nervous breakdown. It was on account of ill health that he took a prolonged vacation and had only returned home a short time ago.

He was born in Vienna, La., forty years ago. He resided at that place until he was sixteen years old, when he went to Wamphach, and was in business with his uncle, Oscar Goodwin, for one year. He then came to Dallas and took a position as bookkeeper with the American Exchange National bank.

Suffered Nervous Breakdown. About six months ago Mr. Gaghan suffered a nervous breakdown and had been very nervous and in ill health since that time. He spent some time at Battle Creek, Mich., in search of better health and then spent two weeks in Italy resting up and trying to regain his shattered health. About two weeks ago he returned to Dallas and had resumed his duties at the bank. Mrs. Gaghan remained in Europe and decided to come home a few weeks later. She is in London at the present time, on her way home.

News of Mr. Gaghan's death was called her Wednesday morning by relatives.

MINISTER OF WAR IS SHOT

Mahmoud Scheffet Pasha Is Killed by Assassin—One Man Has Been Arrested.

Constantinople, June 11.—Mahmoud Scheffet Pasha, the Turkish grand vizier and minister of war, was shot and killed by an assassin today. His aide de camp, Lieutenant Ibrahim Bey, was also killed.

Prince Said Halim, foreign minister and ex-president of the council of state, has been appointed grand vizier ad interim. All the other ministers retain their portfolios.

The following official account of the assassination has been issued: "Upon leaving the ministry of war this morning the grand vizier entered a motor car with the intention of proceeding to the suburbs. But the car was obliged to stop while going through Beyazit and Divan Yolu squares because the road was torn up. Some persons in another car, whose identity has not been established, fired two shots at the car. The grand vizier, who was severely wounded, was taken back to the ministry of war before he died half an hour later."

"Lieutenant Ibrahim Bey, who accompanied the grand vizier, also was hit by one of the bullets and subsequently died."

A man named Tegal Tuzluklu has been arrested; he is suspected of being one of the assassins. He had in his possession two revolvers and some cartridges.

The motor car used by the assassin was found this afternoon and the owner was arrested. He already has made certain admissions.

SUMMER WHITE HOUSE

It Is to Be Ready for Occupancy
June 25.

Washington, June 11.—Word was received from Washington to have the summer white house ready for occupancy by President Wilson and his family by June 25.

Washington, June 11.—President Wilson himself may not be able to spend any time at the summer white house until very late in the summer. The president will stay in Washington as long as congress is in session.

AS TO MAGNOLIA OIL COMPANY

Brown Testifies His Company Is Not the Greatest Producer—Tells of Gas Stock.

Corpus, Tex., June 11.—That the Magnolia Petroleum company, which the state of Texas is seeking to oust as an alleged trust never would have organized and spent several million dollars in Texas if certain legislation known as the Stevens' bill had been enacted by the Texas legislature in 1911, was the positive declaration today by Vice President and General Manager E. R. Brown, at the close of his third day as a witness in the ninety-nine million dollar ouster and penalty suit which the state has instituted.

The bill, which the Magnolia company fears, provided stringent regulations compelling purchasers of companies adjusted trusts to make exhaustive reports of their business to the secretary of state of Texas and this law, the witness declared, was aimed at the Jones-Spaulding company, which purchased the property of the Navarro Refining company, and the Pierce-Purdy company, which purchased the Waters-Pierce properties.

After more than two days' grilling by Assistant Attorney General C. H. Archer and H. C. Folger, Jr., principal stockholders in the Magnolia Petroleum company, maintain the Magnolia as the Texas agency of the Standard Oil company. E. R. Brown, vice president and general manager of the Magnolia, today was turned over to the defense as a witness.

No Legal Contacts. On cross examination Mr. Brown declared that John Sealey and company of Galveston was the Texas agent of the Navarro Refining company, which was a trust and dissolved under the laws of Texas and from which the Magnolia Petroleum company finally evolved, bought the property only after Attorney General Davidson and Attorney General Folger had been consulted. The latter was in charge of the trust proceedings, secured Mr. Sealey that there was no legal contact in the way of the purchase.

Mr. Brown said he had suggested the purchase to Mr. Sealey but that the latter on advice of his counsel, had refused until he had the assurance of the attorney general's department that it would be satisfactory.

Mr. Folger and Mr. Brown had been interested in the proposition because they were one of the financial standing and that it was the purpose ultimately to develop a large business for the company in the state of Texas.

Magnolia Not the Largest. That the Magnolia is not the largest oil manufacturer in the state, but that two other companies exceed its output of refined products, also was developed. The Texas company has a daily refining capacity of 25,000 barrels. Mr. Brown said, and the Gulf Refining company of 25,000 barrels daily, while the Magnolia's capacity is from 15,000 to 15,500 barrels per day. There are other and smaller competitors, he stated, and the total volume of the Texas business done by the Magnolia would not exceed 15 per cent.

While the state had the witness, questions designed to show that the company sought to control the gas situation in Texas through its ownership in Lone Star Gas stock were asked.

Mr. Brown's connections with other companies was taken up. He testified to the purchase by the Magnolia from the Higgins Oil and Fuel company of a large amount of equipment. He said the Higgins company went out of the fuel oil business after this sale but they quit this business because the Texas supply of crude oil was getting low.

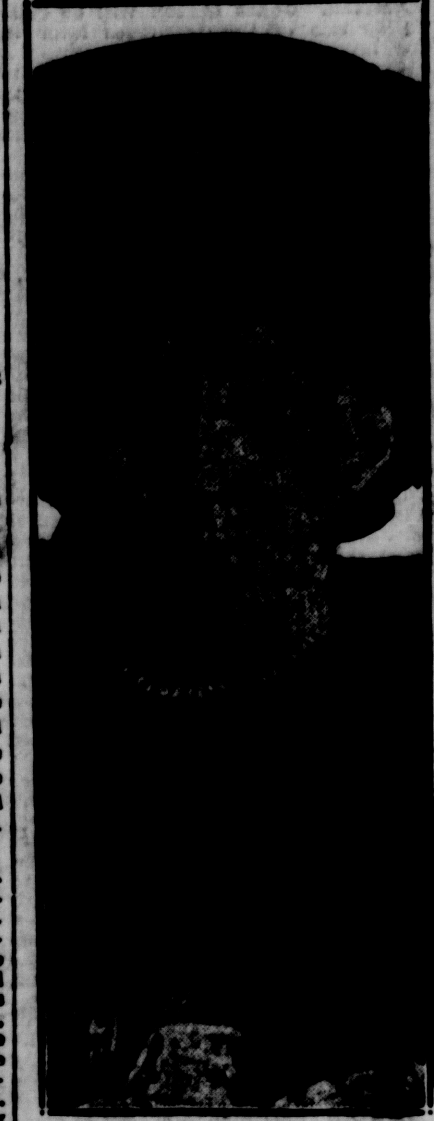

Lone Star Gas Stock. The state next took up the Magnolia's ownership of stock in the Lone Star Gas company, of which Mr. Brown is general manager. The Lone Star company sells gas to the Dallas Gas company, which distributes it in the city of Dallas, and to the Fort Worth Gas company, which sells it in that city, he said. The Navarro Refining company, witness said, put $775,000 cash in the stock of the Lone Star Gas company, and this stock was held in trust for Navarro stockholders, not appearing in the name of the refining company. When the Navarro was dissolved, the Lone Star holdings were divided pro rata among Navarro stockholders, who became stockholders of the Lone Star.

The original capital of the gas company was $2,500,000, which later was increased to $10,000,000. The Clay county company, later purchased by the Navarro, was also a substantial stockholder of Lone Star Gas. He mentioned Trent & Crawford of Pittsburgh, Pa., H. C. Edgerton of Fort Worth, J. W. Ricker of Wichita Falls, W. G. Gage of Beaumont and others as heavy owners of Lone Star stock.

On the redirect examination of Mr. Brown, the state sought to secure an admission that the Magnolia carried out an agreement in Texas which the Standard Oil company was alleged to have formerly made with the subsidiary through which the Standard

METHODS OF SHOE TRUST.

Witness Tells of Threat Made to Him in This Connection.

Boston, June 11.—Demands made on shoe manufacturers to remove competing machines from their shops and the withholding of additional machinery upon refusal of these demands, were among the acts charged against the United States shoe company yesterday in government proceedings.

Leo Learned, a Newbury shoe manufacturer, testified that he had trouble in getting additional machinery from the United States because he had two stitching machines of the Haverhill Shoe Machinery company in his factory. The witness said Sidney W. Winslow, president of the United company, told him he was violating his lease agreement and would have to pay three-quarters of a cent royalty on the shoes covered on the Haverhill machines, as well as on the United machines.

Winslow declared, according to the witness, that he would either have to pay royalty on the Haverhill machines or he would drive him out of business.

Weather Unsettled But Rain Is Coming

"Weather's unsettled, but rain is coming this way," declared Dr. I. Block in a tone that would indicate he was a bit unsettled too. "Got the rain bug where I want him, and we can have a shower most any time we desire it now. Going to show him off in a day or two," and the doctor died wisely with his moustache.

The mercury is still staying well down toward the bottom of the bulb, reaching more than 55 degrees yesterday.

Local Temperatures. Local temperatures furnished by Dr. I. Block, voluntary weather observer, for the twenty-four hours ending Wednesday at 7 p. m.: Maximum 53, minimum 52, barometer 30.16, humidity 60.

Weather conditions unsettled; strong indications of immediate rain.

COL. R. T. MILNER HAS RESIGNED

HEAD OF THE A. & M. COLLEGE
ANNOUNCES HE WILL GIVE UP POSITION.

HAS MADE A FINE RECORD

Says That He Will Have a Statement to Give Out in a Short Time.

College Station, June 11.—Col. R. T. Milner, for the past five years president of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, this afternoon announced his resignation from the presidency of the college. The resignation was tendered the board of directors in their annual meeting last night and was made known today by Colonel Milner. He will return to his old home at Henderson, where he will look after his farm.

During the administration of Colonel Milner the institution has enjoyed a wonderful growth, both as to physical equipment and number of students enrolled.

Has Built Up College. Buildings valued at more than $500,000 have been erected during his tenure of office and the number of students has been doubled. The college has established a department of college extension also during his administration, which has for its purpose the instruction of farmers unable to attend the college. Other features which have greatly increased the efficiency of the institution have been added.

Before coming to A. & M. College, Colonel Milner was editor of a weekly newspaper at Henderson. He was elected three times to the legislature and during the Twenty-second was made speaker of the house. He assisted in the creation and passage of the railroad commission law, the alien land law and other important legislation. Later he was appointed commissioner of banking and insurance.

He assisted in drawing up the bill which created the position of agricultural commissioner and was appointed to that position. He was in that office when he was chosen president of A. & M.

At the time of his election as president he was a member of the board of directors of the college and was the unanimous choice of the board to succeed Dr. Harrington. He numbers his friends both among students and citizens of the state by the thousands.

Will Make a Statement. "At present I have no statement to make regarding my resignation," said Colonel Milner this afternoon. "I have done my duty by the college and never had a charge of negligence or mismanagement been made against me to the board of directors, according to the president of that body."

"I expect to make a statement soon and until that time I shall have nothing to say."

CANCELS HIS ENGAGEMENT.

President Declines to See Governor
Carter.

Washington, June 11.—An echo of yesterday's defeat in the senate by the investigating committee reached the White House today when it was disclosed that former Governor Carter of Hawaii was on the engagement list of President Wilson.

Mr. Carter testified yesterday about his efforts to defeat free sugar and told the committee that, although the president had made an engagement to see him personally, Secretary Tumulty had refused to arrange a meeting for Hawaiian sugar producers. The president read the testimony and sent word to Mr. Carter that he begged to be excused from the interview which had been arranged several days ago for noon today.

Brazilian Minister Here.

Washington, June 11.—Dr. Lauro Muller, Brazilian minister of foreign affairs and special ambassador to the United States to repay the visit of Senator Root, then secretary of state to Brazil in 1906, spent his first day here in a round of receptions and official visits. A private reception by President Wilson in the afternoon was followed by a brilliant official reception at the White House tonight.

Will Attack Juarez.

El Paso, June 11.—Insurgent troops, who today appeared in force east of this city, declare they will attack Juarez. Americans who arrived here today from along the Texas border, reported that the rebels were divided into three groups totalling nearly 1,000 and all within 60 miles of the Mexican border town.

Death at Fort Worth.

Fort Worth, June 11.—The first case of infantile paralysis in Fort Worth was reported yesterday. The child died almost instantly.

City health authorities are taking steps to prevent any spread of the disease. The present cool spell is expected to aid them.

Neutrality Law Violations. Los Angeles, June 11.—Several indictments charging violations of the neutrality laws were reported today by the federal grand jury, which completed an investigation of the smuggling of aeroplanes across the international border to assist Mexican rebels in Sonora. Names of those indicted were withheld.

Preparing the Answer. Washington, June 11.—The answers of the United States to the last Japanese note regarding the California alien land legislation is now in preparation at the state department. Secretary Bryan said today that the communication could not be completed before the end of this week.

Snow in North Carolina. Bakersville, N. C., June 11.—Three inches of snow fell in Mitchell county today. Cattle were in West and North Carolina are facing heavy snow, owing to the grass being covered.

ENDLESS CHAIN LETTERS TO OPPOSE FREE SUGAR

TO LET WOMEN VOTE

ILLINOIS HOUSE COMPLETES ITS LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM OF THE BILL.

Is to Go to the Governor Now for His Approval—Has a Plentiful Majority.

Springfield, Ill., June 11.—The woman's suffrage bill, granting women the right to vote for all statutory offices in the state of Illinois, was passed by the house today by a vote of 83 yeas to 58 nays.

Pending a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed, it will remain in possession of the house. Unless the house reconsiders its vote, which is considered not likely, the suffrage bill will be up to Governor Dunne by the latter part of the present week for his approval or veto.

In order to give notice of a motion to reconsider, Representative McCarty, (Dem.) of Chicago, changed his vote from "nay" to "aye."

He gave the formal notice that on the next legislative day he would move a reconsideration.

The limited suffrage bill which is now a few steps from becoming a law, was introduced in the senate on February 11 by Senator P. S. McGill, Republican, and was passed by the upper branch of the general assembly early in May.

When the roll call had been completed today the measure was one vote short of a constitutional majority. Speaker McKinley, whose name is last in roll, had cast the seventy-sixth vote. He ordered a call of the absentees. Representative Barker's name was the first absentee called. A shout went up when he voted for the bill. Four others voted for the bill after it had received the 77 votes necessary to pass it.

Governor Will Sign It.

"I will sign the bill with great pleasure," said Governor Dunne tonight, "unless there should be well grounded objection as to its constitutionality. This I do not expect. I have favored women's suffrage for many years, although it was not part of our platform last fall."

SUIT AGAINST OATMEAL TRUST

Governor Asks That the Company
Be Refused Right of Interstate Commerce.

Chicago, June 11.—The Quaker Oats company, the so-called oatmeal trust—controlling 90 per cent of the oatmeal product and by-products of the country—was attacked by the federal government in a civil suit filed here today charging a monopoly in "derogation of the common rights of the people of the United States and in violation of the Sherman law."

The government does not ask for dissolution of the Quaker Oats company. It petitions the court to declare the corporation "in and of itself" to be illegal and enjoin the company from engaging in interstate commerce in oatmeal products until competitive conditions existing prior to the combination are restored. The petition asks for a temporary injunction to bring about competition.

HARMONY ON THE LOCOMOTIVE

Firemen and Engineers Have Reached an Agreement as to Their Work.

Washington, June 11.—Ratification of a general working agreement with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers was voted today by a slim margin of the Locomotive Firemen and Engineers in annual session here. The agreement was approved by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers at its recent meeting in Chicago, and today's action puts it into operation.

Under the agreement the two organizations hereafter will work in harmony on all questions at issue between them and the railroad.

C. O. D. PACKAGES IN MAIL.

Postoffice Will Inaugurate the System
July 1.

Washington, June 11.—Instructions were issued today for handling new C. O. D. parcel post packages. The regulations will be effective July 1. Charges on packages will be collected from addressees on and after that date, provided the amount by a single parcel does not exceed $100. The fee for collection will be 10 cents in parcel post stamps. This fee also will insure the package against loss to the actual value of the contents, not exceeding $50.

The sender will get a receipt. The amount will appear on a tag attached to the package. The addressee will receipt for the package on the tag, which will serve as an application for a money order. Collect on Delivery parcels may be accepted for mailing by rural carriers. Such packages will not be mailable either to the Philippines or to the Canal Zone.

WELL PAID PUBLICITY MEN

Good Salary for Work and Money to Closed Door to Them.

Washington, June 11.—Investigation of the "sugar lobby" by the senate lobby committee today was to a marked extent a controversy over whether President Wilson had given the sugar producers reason to believe they would have "nothing to fear" from free sugar under his administration.

Out of the day's testimony in which Louisiana and Hawaiian witnesses repeatedly declared they had not received fair treatment from the president and had been misled by others as to his purpose, the committee succeeded in drawing out what are believed to be some of the most important facts thus far learned. Some of the men frankly admitted they constituted a "lobby" although they objected to the charge that any of their actions had been "insidious" or in any way illegitimate or underhanded. They admitted that comprehensive campaigns had been organized and carried out to create "back fires" on senators and representatives from their own states, in the hope of winning their support to free sugar.

"The prosperity of Louisiana was at stake," said Jules Godchaux, a sugar planter. "We tried to get the people we did business with to write senators and representatives telling them that free sugar would destroy the business of the state. We asked them to wire and write Washington and to ask the merchants who did business within the United States to do the same. We tried to establish an endless chain of letters and telegrams to draw attention of congress to our arguments."

John F. Hamburg of New York, manager of a large Hawaiian sugar firm, admitted his firm had urged all of their 1,500 or more customers to write to senators and representatives to declare that destruction to business would follow free sugar.

"We had to do that to overcome some of the effects of the mis-statements that had been made in the free sugar campaign."

Plainly representative of the president's recent statements as to the operation of an "insidious lobby" in Washington, the Louisiana and Hawaiian sugar men evidenced the hearing with frequent attempts to tell of the pledges they believed they had received that sugar would not be made entirely free. Jules Godchaux and Edward F. Dickinson, the two Louisiana witnesses, declared they had tried in vain to see the president and had been informed that he had all the information he wanted on the sugar tariff.

Mr. Dickinson declared the president had never talked with any "practical sugar man" about the Louisiana situation, and that he had secured most of his information from National Committeeman Robert Ewing, a newspaper man; Sol Wessler, a banker; Representative Broussard and Senators Ransdell and Thornton.

"I have never seen Mr. Wilson on the sugar subject," interrupted Senator Thornton, who was sitting in the committee room.

Charges of the sugar men that they had been given assurances of the president's sympathy on the sugar question were based on statements Representative Broussard is said to have made to the witnesses, after a visit to President-elect Wilson at Seagrift.

"I was assured by Mr. Broussard," said Harry Irwin, representing the Hills, Hawaii, board of trade, "that a plan insinuating a tariff reduction such as would not destroy any legitimate industry was prepared in Mr. Wilson's presence and direct reference to the sugar situation."

Pre-Election Assurance. The fact that the Baltimore convention did not endorse free sugar and other circumstances of the campaign, witnesses said, had led them to work for the Democratic ticket and support Mr. Wilson in the belief they would "have nothing to fear" from any movement for free sugar.

"We cast 50,000 or 60,000 votes for Wilson and subscribed money to his campaign in Louisiana," said Jules Godchaux, sugar planter. "The assurances we thought we had that he would not favor free sugar."

After they got to Washington, Mr. Godchaux said the sugar planters made vain efforts to see the president and talk with him. "We went to work for the Democratic ticket and support Mr. Wilson in the belief they would 'have nothing to fear' from any movement for free sugar."

Denies He Is Insidious. Mr. Dickinson was emphatic in his statements he was not an "insidious lobbyist," declaring he had looked the term up and found it meant "deceitful, lying and treacherous."

"Do you know of any misleading

Inman executed a power of attorney to his brother for the sale of land, and the land was sold under his authority to Warren for value, and Warren then secured a quit claim from Inman to the property. Warren sold to Logan, Logan to Lullin and Lullin sold to Mitchell.

Inman, by his guardian, brought this suit for the cancellation of the deeds and possession of the property, alleging that at the time of the execution of the power of attorney, Inman was insane.

The court held that even though full value had been paid for the land, that the sale was voidable, and that there could be no innocent purchaser and Inman was entitled to recover. An intervenor who held a mortgage on this property also lost.

statements that have been circulated, asked Senator Overman.

"Why, yes, some of these statements and bulletins put out by the free sugar advocates are not truthful," he answered.

"Well, you admit there is insidious lobbying then," retorted Senator Overman. "Please remember that the president has not charged you or your association with being 'insidious'." Mr. Dickinson declared Mr. Ewing and others who had talked with the president before he made up his mind as to the sugar tariff could not have explained the situation as a "practical sugar planter could."

"Why did Mr. Ewing come here?" asked Chairman Overman. "I think he felt it was his duty," replied Mr. Dickinson. "He raised some $20,000 in Louisiana to help elect Mr. Wilson, and, fearing the destruction that was to be wrought by the free sugar policy, I think he felt remorseful."

Sensor Williams had informed him, Mr. Dickinson said, that "he thought two-thirds of the senate finance committee were against free trade, but that three-fourths would vote for it." The character of the countrywide campaign organized against free sugar was detailed by the witnesses. They declared they acted on the belief that protests and arguments from a senator's constituents would receive more attention than those coming directly from the sugar people.

"We tried to get everybody we could to write letters and send telegrams," said Mr. Dickinson. "Mule raisers in Missouri, cotton mill men in North Carolina, dredgebuilders, makers of axes, wedges—anybody who did any business with us. We asked them all to write and wire you, to try and convince you of the destruction that would come with free sugar."

Well Paid for His Work. Royal D. Mead of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' association said he received a salary of $1000 a month for his work in Washington. His efforts, he said were confined to gathering and distributing sugar statistics. He thought $15,000 would cover his annual expenditures. In May, he said, he and Sidney M. Ballou terminated a $2500 contract for publicity work by the press bureau of which E. W. Mayo was head.

Mead produced a detailed account of all his receipts and expenditures in Washington. He had received from the Hawaiian Sugar association $3000. The committee is to demand an explanation of certain editorials published in two papers on the sugar tariff.

Mead told the committee that after terminating the $2500 publicity contract the Domestic Sugar Producers had retained him at a salary of $200 a week to help run the sugar publicity campaign. None of the money spent for advertising, Mr. Mead said, had been used to influence the editorial policy of newspapers. The total amount spent by all purposes was about $400,000 a year, he said, and was raised by assessments. Most of the money has been used, he said, for a sugar experiment station in Hawaii and for securing Philippine laborers.

Elmer E. Paxton of Hawaii, who followed Mead, said he came to Washington in March to represent Alexander & Baldwin, owners of Hawaiian sugar plantations worth $27,000,000.

Conferences had been held with other sugar interests, he said, and letters had been sent to the 1500 or 2000 customers of his firm, urging them to write to their congressmen and senators to protest against free sugar.

High Priced Lecturer. Walter G. Smith, a lecturer for the Hawaiian Promotion company, said he had no idea why he had been sent to Washington. He convulsed the committee with laughter. He said he had been receiving $635 a month for "lecturing."

"What have you done here?" he was asked. "Well, I wrote one editorial on 'The Unrest in Nevada' and offered it to a Washington newspaper, but it never appeared."

"How much are you getting now?" "I don't know; that's what worries me. I don't think I have earned more than $15."

Harry Irwin, representing the Hilo Board of Trade, was another so-called sugar lobby witness.

"What are you doing in Washington?" asked Chairman Overman.

"I was sent here to attempt to prevent the passage of a free sugar bill," said Irwin with emphasis. He said he had made it his special business to have personal talks with senators.

"Hawaii has no representatives in the senate," he added, "and personal appearance before senators or senate committees is the only way we can get our case before the senate."

"Your sole business then was to attempt to influence democratic senators?" asked Senator Overman.

Yes, sir; that is it," said Irwin.

The committee had not finished with the anti-free sugar witnesses when it adjourned tonight. After several more have been heard, the committee will begin the examination of those who have conducted the free sugar publicity campaign. The chief of these is Frank C. Lowry of New York, who testified before another congressional committee that he was employed by the Federal Refining company.

death there was no way of stopping the execution if the governor approved it," asked Senator Borah.

"We did not contemplate imposing death sentences," replied the witness.

"I think the committee will have testimony on this branch of the inquiry," remarked Senator Borah. "The statement of facts seem full and complete."

The military officers who were concerned with the proclamation of martial law in the strike district and with the administration of affairs there under martial law and who were summoned yesterday, were the first witnesses to be called today. Their records were needed to make clear the procedure followed by former Governor Glascock in proclaiming martial law. Judge Advocate General George Wallace, Adjutant General Charles C. Elliott, Major James Pratt, Captain Charles A. Morgan and Captain Samuel L. Walker were on the list.

Tells of the Courts. Former Representative Joseph H. Gaines, an impromptu witness, furnished the committee with the testimony which will form the basis of the investigation concerning the alleged superseding of civil authority for the military forces. Mr. Gaines detailed to the committee the judicial institutions of West Virginia, showing that three courts, the courts of the justice of the peace, the intermediate court and the circuit court, had jurisdiction over all offenses committed in the strike zone. He said that throughout the period when the military tribunal was in charge of the strike district, these courts were open and were conducting their business.

"Then there was no reason why those men arrested in the strike zone could not have been brought to Charleston or taken before any justice of the peace in Kanawha county and tried?" asked Senator Swanson.

"None that I can see," answered Mr. Gaines.

He said that even though the courts in the strike district might have been unable to act, there were courts outside of the affected zone which were clothed with ample authority to try all of the cases arising from the strike disorder.

Fifty-one Sentenced. The documents produced by General Elliott showed fifty-one men sentenced by the military court. Robert Hartigan, a mine guard charged with doing police duty as a non-resident of the state, was sentenced twice, according to the list, each time to pay a fine of $500 and to serve six months in prison. In a similar instance a guard was fined $100 and sentenced to sixty days in prison among other sentences shown were for "intimidation of workmen," thirty-two prisoners, six months each.

The list accounted for all but two cases under the first period. These two cases were marked "missing from the files."

General Elliott said orders restoring martial law last February were modified by Governor Hatfield, annulling that portion of the proclamation which placed the military above civil authorities. The militia, the witness said, was now working under the civil courts.

"While you were in charge in the martial law zone you made arrests on your own responsibility, without a writ or warrant from any civil court?" asked Senator Borah.

"Yes," said General Elliott.

General Elliott said he had no re-

VITALITAS MOUND YARN

Oh Men Recall Old Days and of a Good Foreman Who Had "Shakes."

A well known and veteran Texas oil man who had taken a sample drink of Vitalitas at the display station at Powers-Kelly drug store recalled an interesting incident of several years ago.

"I remember when we were wild-cattling for oil down around the Vitalitas mound that people were constantly visiting it to dig out some of the lava, or whatever it is. They would carry it away in buckets and sacks."

"We had one fellow on the rig who was an acute fiend. He was our foreman and a good man, but the chills almost shook the life out of him. He had had them for months. I guess he had taken malaria. He said he had taken barrels of quinine and other things and that he was going to die unless he could just naturally wake his liver up by working. But he got so bad he could not work; could not do a quarter time."

"One day there was an old farmer came along with a guna sack half filled with the lava he had just dug out of the mound. He saw our sick man and said: 'Sonny, you can get rid of those shakes if you will get some of the dirt out of that mound, soak it in water and drink the water.'"

"Bill did it, and I never saw a man go up so fast in my life. His chills left him, his cheeks got rosy and he got fat as a hog. Since it is being put in liquid form I have taken it myself. There is nothing that beats it for rheumatism and stomach trouble."

Investigate Vitalitas today. It is guaranteed to cure all derangements of stomach, liver, kidneys and blood. See the display at the Powers-Kelly drug store.

one of the proceedings of the military courts established under the second and third declarations of martial law. He said that at one time he had practically the entire militia organization of the state in the field.

Under cross-examination by Attorney Belcher for the miners, General Elliott said that the controversy prior to the declaration of martial law was solely between the miners and operators.

"Was there any state of insurrection in the strike zone prior to the declaration of martial law?" asked Mr. Belcher.

"The governor evidently thought there was," said the witness.

General Elliott said he knew Representative S. E. Davis, former prosecutor, and he had told Governor Glascock that he could not get action in the courts to subdue the riotous conditions. This, he said, was one of the reasons the governor declared martial law.

Capture of Machine Guns. The witness said his troops had captured five or six machine guns in the affected district.

General Elliott told of an armored train on which a machine gun was mounted, which made four trips up Paint and Cabin creeks. He could not say who manned this train.

Attorney Belcher tried to ascertain what rifles were carried on a special train that invaded the Paint Creek section on the night of February 7 and from which a battle was fought. General Elliott did not know where the guns came from. General Elliott said he had been informed that just prior to the first declaration of martial law bodies of armed miners were parading up and down Paint creek. He had been informed that a watchman had been killed from ambush and another one badly wounded. A party of guards who endeavored to recover the guard's body, he had been informed, had been driven back by rifle fire.

The next day an attack on the village of Mucklow had been made by men firing from hills about the town. It was immediately after the battle of Mucklow that the troops were sent into the Paint creek field.

General Elliott said martial law was urged by United Mine Workers' officials and strikers. Coal operators protested.

He identified photographs of a sheet iron fort built by mine guards at Mucklow and told of the capture of hundreds of guns.

Trains held up, mine tipples burned, pitched battles, etc., were detailed by General Elliott.

"All of these affairs were between mine guards and strikers," said the general. "The militia had nothing to do with them, and I know of them only through information brought to me by both sides."

Mother Jones Present.

In the midst of the groups of lawyers representing the miners, headed by Frank S. Monett, former attorney general of Ohio, sat a gray-haired stout old woman with sparkling gray eyes, snapping from beneath her heavy brows, who watched every witness with intent gaze. She was "Mother" Jones, leader of the striking miners, but who lately came from the "bull pen," and she directed the questioning of the lawyers.

"Mother" Jones herself will be called as one of the witnesses later in the investigation.

Tonight Senator Borah took up witnesses produced by the workers to testify as to charges that passage obtained in the Paint Creek and Cabin Creek sections.

A hundred miners came in from the hills today and the attorneys for the mine workers wheeled out the witnesses they wanted to call in connection with this branch of the inquiry.

Following today's speedy work, the committee decided to divide up the inquiry tomorrow, allowing Senator Borah to proceed alone with his passage investigation and probably have Senator Kenyon begin an individual inquiry into general conditions in the strike zone, while the remainder of the committee covered the other branches of the inquiry.

Martine Wants the Truth. Under examination by Senator Martine, S. F. Nance, one of the miners convicted by the military court, related that Major Davis had met him at the postoffice in Eskdale, W. Va., and told him to leave the office and return until a military investigation gave him permission. Nance left the stand and started out of the room when Senator Martine shouted: "Come back here."

Nance shuffled back to the witness chair. "Were you arrested?" asked the senator.

State's Attorney A. L. Lilly, representing the state of Virginia, interrupted.

"Now see here," said Senator Martine, "I am not a lawyer as you are, but I am a senator of the United States. I am not here to cavil with you about the fine points and cheap parings of the legal phases of this situation. But I want to know the truth, and by the Eternal Gods, I am going to get it."

Nance related the circumstances of his arrest and trial before the military commission. He was followed by a miner named Van Goldsborough, who said mine guards refused for three months to allow him to enter the company's store at Ronda, where the postoffice was located to get his mail.

Counsel for the operators endeavored to show that Van Goldsborough was not a regular resident of Ronda and that he expected no particular mail.

"Whether this man expected a love letter or a check does not make a damn bit of difference," exclaimed Senator Martine.

Confiscated Newspaper Plant. At this the big crowd in the committee room roared. Elmer Rumbaugh, an employee of the socialist Labor Star of Huntington, said that Major Davis and a squad of militia took charge of the newspaper plant, destroyed type and locked up himself and the editor of the paper, W. H. Thompson.

The issues of the paper were confiscated. Rumbaugh said he was called before an adjutant General, Wilcox, "warned to be good" and was then released. He said mine guards "shot up one of our protest meetings."

John Seachrist, a Mucklow miner, said that mine guards had set up a fort near Mucklow postoffice, armed with a machine gun, and had ordered other miners from the postoffice.

J. W. Epping of Oakdale said a man with a Winchester rifle made him leave the postoffice.

Other miners testified in a similar vein.

The committee at 11 p. m. adjourned until tomorrow.

Edgefield Amateurs Entertain Crowds On Roof Garden

Local talent held sway at the Edgefield open-air roof garden last night and delighted a good attendance of the neighborhood with comedy and musical numbers.

The performance was managed by two young men of Edgefield, who style themselves the Bedford-Person Comedy company. A small admission was charged, which went to the Edgefield Park and Improvement club for the enlargement of the library. The roof has been equipped with a neat little stage, electric lights and every convenience for staging a play. The applause showed that the efforts of the amateurs were well received, and uproars of laughter that followed the jokes on local characters testified that Edgefield folk enjoy their self-furnished amusement.

The program was carried out as follows:

Humorous Monologue—Marvin Hopkins.

Quartet Selection—Misses Myrtle Warrick, Mary Garrett, Fannie Cameron and Mild Ripley.

"Gittin' Deed Deed Man"—Negro comedy—Miss Shubert, Bryan Keatley, Joe Postwie and Marvin Hopkins.

"D Like to Live in Loveland"—Misses Linnie Crowder and Linnie Pearson.

One-act negro comedy—Bryan Keatley, Joe Postwie and Marvin Hopkins.

"Matrimonial Bureau"—a two-act farce—Miss Linnie Crowder, Roy Pearson, V. Hall, G. Bradford and Moody.

Duet—Moody and Hopkins.

Solo—Linnie Pearson.

After the program the players and audience mingled in a merry crowd around an improvised stand with ice cream cones as refreshments.

CLEAN ADVERTISING METHODS.

What Associated Advertising Clubs of America Will Call For.

Baltimore, June 11.—The creation of a commission to work out the details of a plan to enforce clean methods in all the ramifications of the advertising business will be recommended to the convention of Associated Advertising Clubs of America at its final session Friday.

A sub-committee consisting of Wm. H. Ingersoll and O. J. Gude of New York, and W. S. Keady, general manager of the Chicago Tribune, was appointed today to draft a definite plan. Rules which will be submitted to the general convention are:

That all newspapers and periodicals used by advertisers be required to give the whole truth about their circulations—quantity, location and how secured;

To print advertisements of demonstrably reliable concerns only, concerned to exclude manifest exaggerations, slurs or offensive matter of any kind.

To refrain in the "make-up" from putting advertising in a position to be injuriously affected by the neighborhood of incongruous matter.

To adopt a "flat rate" plan with no secret rebates or concessions.

That bargain announcements in the newspaper and periodicals be only of legitimate and truthful low price offerings, rigidly excluding false comparisons.

That advertising managers should be empowered by their employers to command the truthful co-operation of those from whom they obtain advertising information.

That San Francisco will not be unopposed for the 1915 convention was made plain today when a representative of the Commercial Association of Chicago appeared before the convention with a pledge of a fund of $50,000 for a meeting in Chicago in 1915.

old business in the various states. The witness contended he never had read the alleged agreement.

Asked if H. C. Folger Jr. and John D. Archibald, principal owners of the Magnolia company, had not been parties to the drafting of the old agreement, he replied that he did not know. The Cortesana Petroleum company is a defendant in the suit and the name of that corporation which is engaged in producing oil was brought in today in cross-examination of the witness by the defense.

He testified that the company produces only about 5 or 10 per cent of the oil produced in Texas, and that he considered it far from a monopoly.

No Testimony Agreed. While the Magnolia company bought large quantities of oil for its refineries, it never entered into a contract not to sell oil in any territory with the exception of restrictive contracts which it made with the Houston Oil company of Houston, Mr. Brown testified. He told the state's attorney he protested against that provision but could not secure the oil on any other terms.

"I certainly would not make a contract of that kind in this country under the present law," he told Assistant Attorney G. A. Swenson. During the cross-examination, the witness said in his opinion "it would be impossible to monopolize the oil business in the state of Texas without the state's assistance," and when questioned by the state on the alleged monopoly which the Standard was alleged to have had, he said he believed there never had been a complete monopoly.

Tin Between Attorneys. The Magnolia company at one time figured on a pipe line to the Texas field adjoining the Caddo oil field in Louisiana, and this line was moved to the Louisiana line only, the witness explained, because the company did not desire to do any interstate business, as carriers' rates would be heavier.

It is expected the hearing will be closed here tomorrow, to be resumed in Dallas next week.

There was a sharp tilt between Attorney Richard Henry, representing the state, and Attorney J. W. Terry for the defense today when Mr. Terry objected to certain questions asked by Mr. Henry on the ground "they were intended for the newspapers," to which the defense attorney replied, "that is only your opinion and the defense does not regard state's counsel's opinion as highly important in its conduct of the defense case."

Sharp personalities were exchanged for a few moments before Commissioner Charles A. Reber succeeded in restoring order.

THE SOCIAL CALENDAR FOR THIS THURSDAY

Mrs. Shel Sparks, West Washington, is hostess to the Maids and Matrons. Miss Willie Raborn gives piano recital at Library.

The Misses Naman entertain the Progressive Bridge.

The Young Married Ladies Bridge plays with Mrs. Buford McWhirter, Eighteenth and Sanger; 3:30 o'clock.

MISS MARIE BLOCKER HAS SCHOOL FRIENDS

In her new home on North Fourteenth Miss Marie Blocker was hostess to a company from among school friends. This proved to be the first as well as a merry vacation gathering, peculiarly acceptable now, since nine long months of school has been experienced. Miss Blocker, in anticipating the coming of her guests, made ready for them at eight o'clock, and the party was in progress. For this the best score gave prize to Charles Whitman, and the lowest to Charles Garrett. The souvenirs of the evening were distributed by means of Lady Bountiful and her grab bag. Cruger, the grand marshal, and the hostess. The usual refreshments and party features were introduced.

THE WOMEN ARE PLEASED OVER COMMISSION ACTION

Several days gone by a telephone message came from a woman who told the danger of the whirling car stop to receive and deposit passengers. This woman foretold the danger to the old, the infirm, and the child who is careless of personal safety. She referred to the plan of cities where the vehicles are not allowed to pass at will, but when the street car is stopped, she inquired if the women could not take some action which should bring this same safety precaution to the streets of Waco. This was not needed, she seems, for the city commission realized the danger just as soon as did the women. This ordinance will pass which requires all passing vehicles to stop as the car stops upon the congested thoroughfares. And the women are, scores of them, relieved and thankful for our alert commission.

MISS BESS JENNINGS HAS PUPILS' RECEPTION

In the parlors of Mrs. W. B. Brazelton about thirty mothers and friends gathered for the students' reception of the piano classes of the Misses Jennings. Following the program, all of which were given with ease and precision, Mrs. Brazelton offered the cooling cup of punch with cake. The indisposition of Miss Jennings gave the direction to Miss Jennings, who received full compliment for the work done by her pupils during the past closing year. The Misses Jennings have given two former recitals, their pupils appearing in groups. Those who gave the program for this musicale with Mrs. Brazelton were the Misses Mary Manning, Daisy Brown, Elsie Foreward, Fay Frank, Fay Smith, Florence Hamilton, Elizabeth Watkins, Chloe Hamilton, Nancy Brazelton, Vivian Harder, Katherine Meade, Verla Maezen and Alice Sneed.

THE CRANFORDS ENJOY HOSPITALITY OF MRS. DOWNS

With the delightful turn in the weather, Mrs. S. J. Downs had the opportunity to afford the Cranfords a delightful afternoon in every sense of the word. With such a hostess, the Cranfords anticipated a pleasant hour, but they had not anticipated the cool and its consequent exhilaration. Several of the Cranfords are out of the city. So Mrs. Downs supplied their places by special invitations. Mrs. Downs offered a hostess to the Cranfords, H. C. Black and W. W. Seley. The guests arrived, not only with their accustomed fancy work bags but with beautiful blossoms, so many and such beautiful, that the rooms were handsomely decorated. Mrs. Downs offered as her refreshment the ice cream brick with its usual cake. Nothing was said as to summer adjournment, neither was the next hostess mentioned. Perhaps the general good time precluded even this small mention of business.

NATIONAL FLAG DAY BRINGS LOCAL INTEREST

When we gather at the Old Spring park for the exercises of raising the Texas flag we will have the bit of local history. It is said, and we should be pleased to believe, that the old settlers would verify with details, that on the spot now marked about the Old Spring, Lawrence Sullivan Ross, then a Waco lad, met Sam Houston as he crossed the river, and that the handshake and welcome for Houston into Waco was there given. Is this so? Surely some of the Waco women of those gone by can tell facts in this case. And this brings to mind something else by way of local association of interest right now. Mrs. J. M. Hale, of the Waco Bankers' club, was recently invited to write more than a hundred letters. In her story she told of the Russian braves and of their exciting raids and capture of a beautiful little girl. The brave Texas lad Rogers, and the romance is culminated when the first best playing the Russian band at the Old Spring. "They marry and live happily ever after," and so on. These two incidents only show that romance and history cluster about the Old Spring. Our grandmothers played about it, and our mothers heard their stories. Now, the children of today should be told the same. This is what makes patriotism, flag day, pride in home, and all such. It is not merely the holding of the flag on the pole. Between this and Saturday suppose we revive all the associations, local, historic and romantic, hovering about the old river-side spring.

ROY TAYLOR OUTLAWED FOR MISS HATTIE BUSTER

Quite an outlaw invasion came into the handsome new home of Mrs. P. G. Taylor, who was here last night. Roy Taylor, in compliment to the beautiful guest, Miss Hattie Buster of Grapevine. The young host is a member of the social club, the Outlaw, hence his first welcome was to them. Others were present by special invitation. Both the house and the house home garden were used for the gathering. The refreshments, the music, and other features were planned of the hour. Miss Lillian Taylor was assistant hostess to Miss Hattie Buster. From Lee McCallister, Billie Brown, Pauline Crowley, Sam Merrick, Ruby Taylor, Frankie

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN TORE HER CLOTHES

Testifies She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Malone, N. Y., — "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has certainly done me a lot of good. I first heard of it when I was a girl and I always said that if I ever had female trouble I would take it."

"I suffered from organic inflammation and would have spoils when I would be in such pain that I would tear my clothes. One day my husband got the neighbors in to see what the matter was but they could not help me. My first thought was for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I sent my husband out for it and took it until I was entirely cured. I am a woman of perfect health and my health and happiness came from Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine. You may rest assured that I do all I can to recommend your wonderful medicine to my friends." — Mrs. FANN BROWN, Route No. 2, Malone, N. Y.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

For the women who are building homes here is a hint for the kitchen, "the tail that wags the dog," so to speak, and yet the most neglected feature in the home planning. Have your kitchen so that it can receive plenty of sun. Remember this, for sun is the germ destroyer. Have as little wood-work as possible, as wood catches the germs and harbors insects. And have a draft straight through the room, in order that the odors may pass out instead of towards the dining room. Had you thought of all this?

Cupid does not lacerate the heart, tear it asunder, and indulge all those idle away sentiments any more. With the girl who is wounded now, the wily and walks straight up to her and punctures her heart, just as coolly as though it were the automobile tire in which all the love lacerations had come. There is nothing like living in a promiscuous age.

Is it not rather hard on the girl whose wedding is described when the reporter takes occasion to say "Miss Blank has always been popular." Girls do not like to have such suggestions as to their length of reign in society.

With late summer the time arrives to forecast the outlook for another season's debutantes. For Waco there is great promise.

Mrs. Eloise Fort has written from Virginia that she may be expected home for an August visit. Miss Fort is still fascinated with her work as a trained nurse.

Verily, fashion is a strong thing, and she goes to strange places for her ideas. For instance, when we see the two buttons on the back of a man's coat we do not know that this originated in the custom of buttoning the tails of his coat after a man had mounted his horse. The graceful twine of Princess Louise's scarf about her neck because she carried an ugly coat there; also the origin of bangs is because the present dowager queen of England had a scar on her forehead and brushed down her hair to hide it.

Today our three Waco parties are having their first day out at sea. Wonder how they feel? Going to Europe has its ups and downs.

About how many women can this be correctly said: "She could always do the right thing at the right time and in the right way?"

It really has come to be good form to write the social letter on the typewriter. Once upon a time this was unpardonable, as the machine smacked too much of the shop. But of late days the women have taken to the typewriter as a labor saving device, and they find the print so much more satisfactory to both the writer and the one who receives that it has quite come to apologizing for one's own handwriting rather than for the machine.

Have you thought of that flowerless vase at the cemetery with its stagnant water breeding millions of mosquitoes?

Remember to take the stable fly precaution. Infantile paralysis has been reported both in San Angelo and another town in addition to the Texas epidemic. There is no reason to feel that Waco is exempt, but she can be if the women of Waco take the necessary precaution.

Today notes the closing of the Merchant Colgin cottage on West Austin. Mrs. Colgin spends the next month in Waco, during the time Dr. Colgin will take lectures in Chicago.

ABBOTT BOOSTERS ARE BUSY

Will Have a Barbecue Soon and a Trade Trip—Ladies Improving Cemetery.

Abbott, June 10.—Abbott's Booster club held a regular meeting last night in the public school building auditorium and was called to order by the president, Judge McKee. Pat C. Matthews acted as secretary in the absence of Dr. Sims, permanent secretary. The matter of doing some advertising in the daily papers was taken up and discussed.

A resolution was presented to change the by-laws so as to read seven members shall constitute a quorum instead of fifteen, as it now reads.

The barbecue feature of the Abbott picnic was taken up and a committee appointed to make the necessary arrangements for meats to barbecue, with power to act. This picnic will be held June 28.

The Waco Morning News was tendered a vote of thanks for past favors in the way of press notices of the Booster club and Abbott in general.

The young men composing the Abbott brass band have recently received a handsome set of new instruments and they are practicing almost nightly. They have taken the services of a home musician to instruct them in the making of a well-trained band.

A committee of three was appointed at the Monday night boosters' meeting to arrange for a tour of automobiles to make the booster tour to the following towns: West, Penelope, Malone, Bynum, Mertens, Brandon, Hillsboro, Aquilla, and then home. This committee is to report at the regular meeting Monday night.

The Abbott Cemetery society met at the residence of Mrs. W. H. Wood last Saturday. The meeting was called to order and the election of officers being first business, Mrs. E. J. Spruce was elected president; Mrs. A. A. Johnson, secretary; Mrs. J. W. Kennedy, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. W. R. Hammond, treasurer. There are seventy-five members, and the annual dues are $1 each. The object of the society is the improvement and beautifying of the cemetery. There was a large crowd in attendance at this meeting and refreshments were served. The society worked all last week on the cemetery grounds and hope to finish up the work this week.

No Automobile Club.

Austin, June 11.—The supreme court today refused to grant the writ of mandamus to compel the secretary of state to file the charter of the Dallas Automobile Club Building association under the article of the statutes, which provide for the incorporation of concerns having the purpose "to support and maintain bicycle clubs and other innocent sports."

The case has been one of interest to the sporting fraternity in the state as the question arose over the legality of filing charters for baseball clubs. The matter was referred to the attorney general and the holding was made by Assistant Attorney General C. E. Cureton that nothing but bicycle clubs and clubs having some connection with bicycle clubs could be established.

ON BEING FOUND OUT.

Graft is a monster of so frightful mien That to be hated needs but to be seen; Yet though crushed down it lifts like any cork— Now here, now there, but mostly in New York.

Graft is a monster of such frightful mien That legislators hate him till they're "green." Yet seen too often with marked bills and such, They do not pity or embrace him much.—Springfield Union.

Graft is a monster of such frightful mien Jurors, lawmakers, all call him unclean, And turn from him with contempt in their laugh— When they suspect a listening dictagraph.—Houston Post.

Graft is a monster of such frightful mien No Rep. in public with him will be seen; But many with him counsel to be rich In private rooms o'er poker games and such.

The grouping of several undesirable propositions with one worthwhile proposition may have been clever politics, but the adoption of Number 18 will not be clever policy, decides the A. and M. alumni association. Voters of Texas are to be trusted, not misled and every feature of Number 18 could have been made to stand, and should be considered, separately and on its own merits. It is poor business to make a proposed amendment to the constitution a means to the subverting of a political end. The State is competent to deal with the university situation as an independent proposition and sees no reason why it should be made a party to a pretense to benefit all its institutions, to the certain detriment of some. So let this entire muddled proposition be rejected.

We are informed by State officials just come from Austin that Capt. William Martin Thornton, the w. k. "hesitate-for-sixty-seconds" correspondent of the D-G News, resents our query as to his whereabouts what time the catfish vanished from the Statehouse pool. Capt. Thornton is famed as a bass fisherman and considers bass the mere suggestion of a catfish catch.

And now those railroad commissions that for a year have been sitting back, treading softly and viewing with alarm any order the whistles cleaned, the floor scrubbed, the handle of the big front door polished—and get down to making more equitable intrastate rates.

Deferring to the Oriental pronunciation, we may note that the Japanese billiardist vanquished by Champion Hoppe found there was nothing hoppy about the champion but his name.

How a town might get too much of this Johnson is easily understood.

Now it is figured that Roosevelt vs. Newett cost plaintiff not quite $10,000, but whatever the colonel paid for that sort of recreation was too much, in our judgment.

Paris artists are discussing the question, "At what age is woman most beautiful?" If age is to be considered, how are they going to find examples?

We must deprecate the Kansas City Star's surprise that the only editor in the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth is the new warden.

RIGGINS.

A man is crucified today and announced tomorrow by his admiring fellow citizens. A case in point: J. W. Riggins, a few years since was the mayor of the city of Waco. He ran affairs to suit himself, and then his admiring fellow citizens, ridiculed, derided and contemned him. They said Riggins was the political limit. On the 9th day of June Riggins arrived at Waco from St. Louis with all the papers signed up for a new $350,000 ten-story hotel. When he alighted from the train the hands played "Hail to the Chief." "See the Conquering Hero Comes," and other inspiring hymns. The people thundered their acclamations of praise. Riggins was the idol of the hour, a great public benefactor, a beacon light of progress and a pillar of prosperity. And yet, he was the same J. W. Riggins of yesterday—Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, in Fort Worth Record.

Not only to confront your enemies, that is not enough; nor is it that I would have you bluster at them, nor take arms against them; you will not have to do that if, when they come at you, you do not turn one inch aside, but with an assured heart, with good nature, not noisily, and with steadfastness, you keep on your way. If you can do that, I say that they will turn aside for you, and you shall walk straight through them, and only laughter be left of their anger.—Booth Tarkington, "The Conquest of Canaan."

The fire marshal is making arrangements to compel a "safe Fourth." We trust these will include the oratory.

THAT "COUNTERVAILING DUTY."

The suggestion of the senate subcommittee, in answer to the protest of farmers and stockraisers against free-listing their sort of products on the claim that they could not compete with the foreign stuff in this country, that a "countervailing duty" or system of duty be imposed on these products, only those countries being permitted free importation that admit our like products free, appears already to have aroused deep disdain in the press of Texas. The Houston Post, in an interesting comment on what it terms an attempt "to placate the producers," classes this reciprocal arrangement—with the other nations to take the initiative—as "a happy thought, bespeaking economic erudition, smacking of 'political expediency,' to which (it says) we little dreamed Democratic statesmanship would ever descend....we hardly think the 'mud-sillers' will fall, so to speak, for so flimsy an expedient as the 'countervailing duty' for with those countries which have products in kind with theirs to export, they cannot very readily see where they will find a very broad and inviting market for the exportation of their own products. Let our Democratic tariff makers quit their web-weaving and get back on defense. A Democratic ground."

And the Galveston News has this conclusion in an editorial much to the same effect on its claim of uselessness of such a system:

The Argentine Republic and Canada are the only countries from which we might expect to import wheat, and since they grow more of this cereal than they consume, it is difficult to conceive what advantage American growers of wheat would derive from free access to their markets. In the case of countries which are importers rather than exporters of wheat, the offer of free access to our market for their wheat could operate as no inducement whatever to open their market to our wheat. The question of whether they put wheat on their free list or on their dutiable list will not be influenced at all by the offer of free access to our market, but will be resolved by other considerations. If any country, to make another example, is willing to give free admission to our cattle in return for free admission of its cattle into our market, it will be because that country imagines that it is better able to compete in our market than we should be to compete in its market, so that it is not clear how our cattle producers would get any quid pro quo. It seems to us, in fine, that this proposed arrangement would turn out to be pretty innocuous, so that if there is little to say in favor of it, there is likewise little to say in opposition to it.

But we see no occasion for disdain. Certainly it is better to contrive that our raw material be admitted free to other nations if we are to admit theirs free to our markets. The complaint is that Canadian or Argentine wheat and cattle admitted free to our market, while our wheat and cattle are dutiable in those countries will result in genuine damage to the producers of these things at home, and the question of present production cost here is made a part of the argument to show that there would be a ready sale for such imported products relieved of the duty handicap. Reciprocal arrangements of this sort may not be judged by a few specific markets, or like products, such as the Galveston News cites. The application is general—and we fall to find instances in these arguments those nations that do import our grain and meat, but maintain duty thereon, and export very little themselves, if any. They lose nothing by free-listing our products simply because there is no advantage to them in gaining free access for their like limited products to this nation—rather do their people gain by receiving American products without duty; they gain in the saving of duty from the cost in their markets. It seems to us but just that these imports should not be admitted free where duty is charged on our like exports; in some instances, we grant, the result would be negligible, but in others it would not. The same argument of "like products" was raised against Mr. Taft's plan of reciprocity with Canada—but Canada rejected reciprocity for general protection.

Are we to be forced to the conclusion that the only arrangement that will really satisfy Texas interests is protection? The party leaders will not adjust the new schedules as Texas raises them; but the countervailing duty system certainly does lessen the "hardship" to some extent by requiring nations to free list our product before their like product will be listed by us. We fail to see wherein that does not make for fairer competition if any vestige of our tariff, for revenue or any other purpose, is to remain; or why the plan is not just, whether it be an attempt to give our protesting raw material producers something of what they ask for or whether, on its own merits, the plan may be considered an advantageous part of our reduced schedules.

A week has passed since nothing happened to Boss Cox, of Cincinnati, in the court and nothing has happened to him in the past week.

FOR PUBLIC SAFETY.

The commission has ordained that motor vehicles shall not exceed five miles an hour speed on turning corners of streets in this city. The ordinance is "the result of the discussion of safety in the streets" lately had by the commission. If this ordinance is enforced as it should be by the police, and if it is remembered that a maximum fine of $100 can be imposed in aggravated cases, it will be safer to cross Austin Avenue at intersections from Third to Eighth streets. It is up to the citizens to obey this safety regulation. It is very much up to the police authority, in court and street, to enforce it.

Let all drivers of motor vehicles—this includes motorcycles—remember this: Half as fast, twice as sure, many times as safe.

HOW DO THEY KNOW?

"State Comptroller Lane has decided to prosecute 100 dealers in soft drinks," notes the Admirable Fitzgerald in the morning column of the Fort Worth Record. "He says they have been selling stuff in local option territory that contains three and four times the amount of alcohol allowed by law to class them as non-intoxicating liquors. State Comptroller Lane would not know alcohol if he tasted it. He even draws the line on Bryan grape juice. Now, where did he get his evidence? His appointees are sterling rock-ribbed prohibitionists. There is not a man in his department who knows the difference between a mint julep and a tequila highball. He should call in Dr. Abbott, the pure food expert. Dr. Abbott can smell alcohol ninety miles away when the wind is blowing in the opposite direction."

At the risk of pleading to the Admirable's charge of boneheadism, we meekly inquire if those few kind words concerning the innocence of the comptroller and his merry men nonalcoholically are, or are not, sarcasm. We recall the array of pints and half-pints on the upper shelf of the State's bookcase in the head's inner office and the collection of same in the lower drawer of his e. e. desk—labeled and sealed and prepared for evidence, these; the purchasing of his capable sleuths in the mid-Sunday drinkeries of Galveston. We know none of these was ever opened while in Mr. Lane's possession. He was not even tempted—he never even offered one to the correspondents or his visitors from East Texas, either office holders or useful citizens, sheriffs or those who work for a living, some of whom desired cheering, heaven wot! That is why we inquire if Editor Fitzgerald was waxing ironic. We are as sure our comptroller's lips have ever been liquorless as we are certain a Fort Worth eminent prohibition salon drank the contents of a bottle of beer the year before the first Statewide prohibition election in Texas and has since deplored the lapse. We hope Mr. Fitzgerald is as sincere in his praise of the comptroller's abstinence as we are.

But as to Mr. Lane's sleuths, now—regular and departmental, special and detached. We are as curious to know whence Mr. Fitzgerald obtained his information concerning their inability to distinguish julep from highball as he is curious concerning the source of the comptroller's alcoholized soft drinks evidence.

"If it isn't an Eastman it isn't a Kodak"—that's what the government is kicking about.

RELIEF FOR STATE RAILROAD COMMISSIONS.

The authority of the state to prescribe transportation rates is limited by the action of the constitutional power of congress is statewide....To say that power exists, but that it may be exercised only in prescribing rates that are on an equal or higher basis than those that are fixed by the carrier for interstate transportation is to maintain the power in name while denying it in fact. It is to assert that the exercise of the legislative judgment in determining what shall be the carrier's charge for the interstate service is itself subject to the carriers' will. But this statewide authority controls the carrier and is not controlled by it; and the idea that the power of the state to fix reasonable rates is limited by the mere action of the carrier in laying an interstate rate in places across the state's border, is foreign to our jurisprudence. If this authority of the state be restricted, it must be by virtue of the paramount power of congress over interstate commerce and its instruments; and, in view of the nature of the subject, a limitation may not be placed because of a dormant federal power, that is, one which has not been exerted, but can only be actual in the exercise of federal control in such measure as to exclude action by the state which would otherwise clearly be within its province.—Mr. Justice Hughes, in the "Minnesota Rate Cases."

That is what the state's railroad commissions have been waiting for. It is not too much to say that in the year past the commission of Texas, and of every other state, has considered there was suspended above its authority to make freight and passenger rates of application within the state solely, a sword at the end of a most delicate thread; that it was seriously said the very existence of our commission depended on the highest court's finding in the Minnesota rate cases. There was in the cases decidedly adversely to commission's rate-making authority by the Minnesota federal judge a direct attack on the very essentials of intrastate regulation by state commissions. That is why the states felt it their duty to intervene in these cases when taken to Washington; why state commissions whose regulations and methods were identical with those sought to be set aside in Minnesota and five other states and even commissions whose regulations were dissimilar in effect, made their protest in the form of briefs against the curtailment, if not the actual overthrow, of state authority to prescribe transportation and traffic rules and charges.

It is to be kept in mind that this opinion fixes a rigid, though just, restriction for the rate-making power of state commissions on the score of confiscation and unreasonable interference with, or "burden" on, interstate commerce. There is relief for state commissions in the finding that regulation applying within state bounds may not be set aside unless federal authority has prescribed, or afterwards actually prescribed, other regulation in the premises as an interstate commerce concern; but there is also admonition to future activities of these state bodies in the holding that rate-making and other regulation must be commensurate and consistent with fair value of railroad property and returns of its operation for intrastate and interstate carrying. The justice's treatment of this all-important phase of regulation on the score of the state's right where congress has not stepped in, goes to the very sources of constitutional limitation; it also goes to the very sources of state regulation—and it is not possible to suggest that state authority to prescribe transportation if federal authority has not been exercised on the same head over again can be attacked in this country. It seems to us the question is thoroughly dealt with, the history of state control wholly covered.

It is well that the decision runs as much and as definitely to limitation on state authority and method in valuing railroad property for rate-making purposes as it does to the actual constitutional right of states to regulate transportation within their borders. Difficulty, and detriment to state regulation, have been caused almost as frequently by orders that approached the confiscatory in view of the financial condition of roads and their value as they have by orders that the road opposed as in restricting of interstate commerce. In this decision railroads are given forever to understand that their intrastate operation is amenable to state control; states are given to understand finally that their regulation must be just; the road's strength or weakness must be considered. There is perfect balance in these views, we think; especially in there unanswerable justice, legal and common, in the view as to state's right that introduces this comment.

A situation of tremendous importance to the commerce of the nation has been determined righteously and clearly. "I found there had been consumed only seven ounces of the brandy." But it must be remembered the colonel was on a hunting trip, not a fishing trip.

Texas Viewpoints

Only Fancy.

An Arkansas "sweet girl graduate" was recently heard to remark that she has already received seven fans as graduation presents and she had not even sent out the invitations. She remarked, in discussing these presents, that her "friends must think I am crazy with the fans." Rather pointed.—Clarksville Times.

Almost enough to set aside a room as a fanatic, eh? Fantastic, but not so stupid, at that.

S. P. on W. C.

Just because State Press is president of the Press Association is no reason why the boys should endeavor to involve him in a row with the women over the question of woman suffrage. Bro. Taylor is a man who generally thinks before he speaks, and in this case he is apt to think several times before articulating.—Waxahatchie Light.

Have another try at it. Guess once more, yet. State Press, pres. of Tex. Press, does think before he speaks, of course, and, of course, he speaks; he has to speak, at least a column a day, trippingly upon the page. But State Press will be involved in no "row" with Texas women on the equal suffrage question. He has thought and he has spoken and his communication is "yes, yes" for the cause. State Press, being possessed of brains in the head, neither fears to express an opinion on a situation of worldwide scope nor talks about biscuits, cooties, sweeping, scrubbing and men's stomachs when he does express an opinion. Those who read State Press regularly—or 99.40 per centum of the readers of the Dallas News—know exactly where he stands on the equal suffrage crusade. Texas women have no violent pedal movement coming on the attitude and comment of State Press, in this regard.

Grapejuice and Gramps.

A white ribbon drink is now on sale in Washington barrooms. It is called the "Bryan rickety," and came into that city as a part of the present administration's "grape juice diplomacy," growing out of the incident of the serving of grape juice instead of wine at a dinner given by Secretary of State Bryan to the representatives of foreign governments. The drink promises to become popular during a part of the present administration at least. It is made as follows: Take half a glass of grape juice, pour over cracked ice, add a dash of lemon juice and some carbonated water.—Maypearl Herald.

Sweet are the U. S. A. Let the diplomats get in right with the other secretary of State and the pruned-off president and an abominable administration by saturating themselves with Bryan rickety in the night of men, happy in the knowledge that an antidote-reliever-chaser of real liquor must be speedily forthcoming. The chaser of and for a Bryan rickety is made as follows: Two fingers of cognac, half a finger of blackberry cordial, teaspoonful of Jamaica ginger and a dash of nutmeg. Stir, and drink with speed and a grimace. "Bryan rickety"—slurp!

What's the Matter With Palestine?

Getting right down to the heart of things, what this town needs perhaps more than any other thing, is more real men. Men who have within themselves the eternal principles of right, scared deep into their very souls; men who will do right and not right because it is right; men who are moved through pure motives. The greatest asset to a community is men, honorable men, stalwart men, men of truth and integrity; men who dare to do right because it is right, and who are not swayed through policy or through any business reason. This old town right now is crying for more of them, in demanding them, and must have them, because confronting us are some jobs for real men.—Palestine Herald. But, knowing that a reply to that Herald.

That's good business, good preaching of common sense advice by newspapers in a small city invariably is forthcoming from a professional promoter of the brand whose favorite comeback is, "It was good enough for father so it's good enough for me," we await with interest the Herald's development of its proposal to get "real men" for Palestine. After all, there's no place like home if you can find the right sort of home in every block or two.

Waco and The Morning News

Too Much Them (pence). Strange isn't it? The Dallas News, Fort Worth Record, Houston Post, and Waco Morning News continue to spell Minister Thad Thompson's name incorrectly. All the same Minister Thompson will go to Columbia even if a "p" is always added to the middle of his name.—Georgetown Commercial.

Our Comanche Friends. The representatives of the Young Men's Business League of Waco will be in Comanche June 13 on a trade excursion. But It Was Fossil. Billy Sunday's unrestrained shooting off of his mouth at the expense of a good woman will, we hope, if repeated, bring his mouth in contact with some good man's fist.—Waco News. POLITICS OUTS OUT COL. MILNER

FORECAST MADE IN THIS COLUMN SOME TIME AGO HAS BEEN VERIFIED.

OVER TWO YEARS A CONTEST

Presidency of the A. & M. College to Change—Probably Other Heads to Fall Later.

By James Hays Quarles.

The resignation of Col. R. T. Milner, published in the dispatches in this issue of the Waco Morning News, bears out the forecast I made several times in articles I have written about the Agricultural and Mechanical college. No successor has been announced, the board evidently desiring that the action of the president have the appearance of something unexpected, and it will delay a few days after the proper disposition of the retiring president before announcing the governor's choice for the head of the institution. This will be one of two men:

Clarence Outley of Fort Worth. F. M. Bradley, now state superintendent of public instruction. We who are close friends of Colonel Milner have known for some time that he was to be displaced. It has been in the shuffling of the political cards for more than two years, but never before has the pressure been strong enough to force the issue. Colonel Milner has never been satisfactory to the present governor of Texas, and although educational institutions of the state have never been under political patronage, the two years last past have seen politics established in this regard. Now that Colonel Milner is out, there are other chances for a man who will be a champion from South Texas elected to the college. There will be a new treasurer at the college to succeed John M. Carson, who has been faithful in his work since he first took office in December last regarding the bill that was to be introduced in the legislature to move the livestock feed inspection department from the college, the governor said:

"I want every man connected with the college to understand that I am a friend of the institution, but I do not want opposition in this measure to come from those dependent upon my appointment."

I have made no attempt to dominate the selection of the officers and employees of the college, but I will not appoint a member of the board of directors for the next two years who will antagonize my position upon this question or who will elect a man to a subordinate position who will antagonize me.

I hardly think I can be more emphatic than I have been in this letter. My course in the matter is determined upon and I hope to have the co-operation of the college rather than to have the college in opposition. Colonel Milner fought the removal of this feed control and defeated it. Colonel Milner has been fighting the amendment to the constitution under which there will be unlimited authority to issue bonds, and Mr. Colquhoun is pushing the amendment. If the bond amendment is adopted by the people in July, the legislature which meets two days after the bond election will have authority to issue bonds; there is no limit on the amount of bonds that can be issued. Governor Colquhoun has eighteen months to serve and his public utterances indicate that he will favor bonds for the penitentiary and other institutions that will total into the millions.

Soon after the governor called for the resignation of J. W. Carson and the board carried out his wishes. Colonel Milner made a plea for him and the board reinstated him, only to be informed by the governor that such a thing should not be tolerated, and that his commission must be annulled. So Carson was again tried and was dismissed.

It was not long after that until the governor asked the board to call for the resignation of John Carson. The board met at the college, and after a long session, it was decided to call for the resignation of John Carson. Carson appeared on the scene and begged for the retention of the man and won the day.

Last summer Colonel Milner wrote to the war department to detail a candidate at the college, stating the kind of a man who was needed, that he should be a graduate of West Point and a soldier of experience. The governor recommended another man, and who had never been at West Point and who was not familiar with cadet life. Colonel Milner was informed by the war department of the governor's wishes, but was given to understand that if he as president insisted, the character of man he named would be considered. He insisted and won the day. The governor's man was turned down.

To show the non-political attitude of Colonel Milner, I should be stated that he was a candidate for the war department. He did not want any appointment, but only the character of the man. He did not know the names of officers of the army being considered, and the man who was appointed under his specifications was one of whom he had never heard until his name was announced.

An effort was made to have elected for the students a minister who was a member of the board and over seen and were therefore unable to follow the qualifications of the war department. The governor knows all these things. There were all prepared to cast the colored ball, but they miscounted. During the colonel's administration the colored man he named would be considered. He insisted and won the day. The governor's man was turned down.

rebuild, and placed upon a foundation which warrants the brightest expectations of the friends of agricultural education throughout the state. There has been more harmony in the faculty and more reforms inaugurated for the expansion of the work of the institution than at any time in its history.

State of Texas, County of McLennan, ss. We, the undersigned, president and C. B. Sloan as cashier of said bank, each of us do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of our knowledge and belief. (Signed) W. W. WOODSON, Notary Public. Correct—Attest: C. B. SLOAN, President.

We Action in Value. Fort Worth, June 11.—The executive committee of the Texas Cattle Raisers' association, meeting in quarterly session, took no action on Fort Worth's request for a postponement of the 1914 state convention. This request was made because of the cattlemen's failure to confer with the Cattle Raisers' association before the state convention. The cattlemen will agree to a postponement in their meeting time.

Houston, June 11.—Waco and Houston fought ten innings to a 2 to 2 tie here today. Ogle had the locals helpless until the eighth when four hits scored two runs. Miller, who relieved Allen when Ogle batted for him in the eighth, pitched his last game since his return to the local club and did well. Britton played a great short.

Galveston 6, Dallas 1. Galveston, June 11.—In the last three innings today Galveston hit Schwenk hard and when the batting was finished six runs had been driven across the plate. The visitors made one run in the fourth when Hiett had a bad inning and walked three men. In every other inning Hiett was right and had no difficulty in blanking his opponents. Edmiston's home run in the eighth inning accounted for a pair of runs for the locals. The game was featured by fast fielding work on both sides.

LUMBERMEN TO CLASH

LEE DEWEY CHALLENGES SALESMEN TO BASEBALL GAME.

Duty Is Accepted—Will Play Friday Afternoon at Katy Park—Teams Out for Blood.

Wrapped in tissue paper and tied with baby ribbon a challenge for a challenge bore the following: "Adare Lockman, president of the Associated Lumbermen at Houston by L. D. Dewey, representing the lumbermen of Waco. The challenge was accepted, the official seal attached and returned to the local challengers. The game will be staged Friday afternoon at Katy park, the association having its annual meeting at Waco at that time. The outer covering of the lengthy challenge bore the following: "Adare (to) Lockman." Among other stipulations the challengers specify:

"This challenge is presented with the understanding that the A. L. S. are to bat with the regulation sticks as prescribed in Spaulding's guide as no shovels will be allowed in the game. The tobacco trust has also advised that their '$30 Hit the Bull' offer will not apply to this particular contest."

"I think your suggestion a good one, and I am today writing our friend, Wherritt, to circulate the dope among the boys and shall authorize him to give you an answer as soon as he can hear from the bunch. In the meantime, I expect to get out on the back lot and lumber up. In my palmy days I could back 'Batty' off the boards, but I seriously doubt my ability to come back. Another question that is worrying me at present is the one involving the umpire. The chances are that Frank Lennox will want to play either right field or bat carried in either position, his contentious demeanor will unfavorably reflect on the standing of the A. L. S. with 'his ump's'."

"I am in hopes that it will be found possible to take on the Waco crowd and I shall ask Frank to accept your haughty challenge and remove some of Waco's cranium infatuation. Any way we will circulate the dare among the tooth pick peddlers and get their verdict."

The challenge was circulated and as well an appeal was made to the salesmen by the Waco men. Frank Lennox. The appeal contained:

"I want every one of you with a past record or future ambition of becoming a ball player, to advise me if you can be present on this date, what position (besides pitcher) you can play. All you have to do is come and can play. I wish would get out on the back lot and lumber up. This has special reference to Adare Lockman. If you have any gloves put them in your grip. If you haven't bring some 'jags'."

The Waco lumbermen will be ably guided by Manager Lee Dewey and he promises to give the A. L. S. their first taste of defeat. The writer has quite a good deal of respect for the bunch he is collecting, but we will have to be shown, as we admit nothing. We are to ask a Clarence Ray to umpire and Eddie Bower will be present to see that they play 'em rough. Advise me on receipt of this letter if you can be here.

"Don't delay, our reputation is at stake."

The game has been arranged and will start promptly at 5 p. m. Friday, no admission being charged.

The following are the line ups of the two teams:

Chief Montour is expected to be in shape again by Friday night, after his experience Tuesday night with Pet Brown at Austin, where a rough and tumble affair was staged. Friday night Montour meets Burns at the Auditorium.

Both Burns and Montour are confident of victory and local fans look forward to a lively match. Considerable feeling exists between the two wrestlers, each claiming unfair tactics at their last match. Competent officials have been secured for the match and there is little likelihood of fouls being made by either man, although it is expected to be hard fought. Manager Charleson says the match will be of the best he has brought to Waco. "Montour secured two out of three falls last week," Manager Charleson said yesterday, "but even he does not expect easy sailing with Burns. The Californian is in great shape and is one of the greatest wrestlers on the main. I believe I have scheduled a contest that will satisfy all who like a hard fight."

More fuel is consumed in the city of Pittsburgh and its immediate vicinity than in any other city in the world.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE

ACT IS HELD CONSTITUTIONAL
BY COURT OF CRIMINAL APPEALS.

Legislature Has Authority to Say
That First Offender Shall Be Released.

Austin, June 11.—The constitutionality of what is known as the "suspended sentence" act of the Thirty-third Legislature, was upheld by the court of criminal appeals today in the case of John Baker, appealed from Harris county.

In this case the defendant was convicted of the offense of burglary, it being shown by evidence that he had never before been indicted for a felony, and at the request of the defendant the court submitted the question to the jury, which recommended that sentence be suspended. The court, however, after submitting the issue, upon reflection held the act unconstitutional and sentenced the defendant to the penitentiary for a term of years.

The court, speaking through Judge Harper, holds that the act is constitutional; that it relates solely to the penalty to be suffered and the legislature has the power and authority to fix the penalty for every character of offense. The opinion states that the act is misnamed "suspension of sentence;" that no court nor jury has power to suspend sentence; that as the legislature has the right and authority under the constitution to prescribe the punishment for burglary or any other offenses mentioned in the code, it also has the authority to say that one may not be punished for the first offense under certain conditions. The case was therefore reversed and remanded with instructions to the court to vacate and annul the sentence theretofore announced by the court, and ordered the appellant released upon his recognizance as the law prescribes.

The court also reversed the decision of the Harris county criminal district court in refusing bail to W. E. Carter, charged with the murder of Alex Johnson in Houston April 28 last, and ordered him released on giving bond in the sum of $10,000.

The court affirmed the Paul Fowler case from Tarrant in which the death penalty was imposed for murder and highway robbery. A reversal was sought on the ground that the admission of the defendant's confession made to officers was an error.

In the Supreme Court.
Austin, June 11.—The following proceedings were had in the supreme court today:

Judgment court civil appeals affirmed—Right of Way Oil company vs. Gladys Oil, Gas and Manufacturing company, from Jefferson county.

Certified questions answered—Houston Belt and Terminal Railway company vs. Jacob Hornberger, from Harris county.

Mandamus refused—F. M. Smith vs. John L. Wortham, secretary of state. Motion for rehearing submitted—H. B. Reed vs. S. C. Robertson, Lubbock county.

Motion for leave to file addenda to petition for writ of error submitted—Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone company vs. A. L. Shirley, Bexar.

Motions to advance submitted—W. R. Thompson et al vs. M. H. Harmon, Tarrant; Charles Mendelsohn et al vs. Abe Gordon (two cases), Harris.

Motion to advance submitted and granted—Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railway company vs. State of Texas, Travis.

HEMP IS TO BE UNDUTYABLE

This is Believed to Be a Way to Reduce Cost to the Farming Classes.

Washington, June 11.—Changes in the Underwood bill by the senate finance sub-committee, transferring proposed dutiable articles to the free list, will aggregate an estimated annual loss in revenue to the government of nearly a million and a half dollars a year.

This curtailment of the total estimated revenue under the house bill is based only on articles known to have been transferred to the free list thus far upon sub-committee recommendations and does not take into account decreases in duties which will be proposed on many articles. Added to the $25,000,000 estimated loss in revenue under the house bill free list, this would aggregate $26,500,000.

Included in the senate list are the revenues that would be derived from hemp, which the Underwood bill makes dutiable, but which the senate sub-committee today decided should be transferred to the free list. Hemp will be sent to the caucus on the free list on the ground that it belongs there if other products of the farm, such as cattle and wheat, are to be free listed, as it would result in cheaper twine to the farmers and compensate somewhat by reducing their harvest expenditures. Hemp, being a plant not hatched, the sub-committee proposes to remove from the dutiable list, the former from $11.20 a ton and the latter from one cent a pound in the Underwood bill.

Some of this loss in revenue may be made up by countervailing duties on certain agricultural products, but this amount, it is estimated, will not be large.

Among the articles which the senate sub-committee has added to the free list and the estimated revenues cut off are: Pig iron, $120,000; ferro manganese and spiegelstein, $126,000; hemp, $78,400; livestock, $582,000; wheat $200,000; photographic films, $210,000; cedar wood $10,000; coal tar dyer, $50,000, a total of $1,417,900.

Today the majority members of the finance committee opposed publication at this time of detailed changes in the Underwood bill approved by them on the sub-committee's recommendations.

The committee today had under consideration the changes in the cotton schedule proposed by Senator Johnson's sub-committee. Most of them were approved, but one or two matters were referred back to the sub-committee for further consideration.

In this schedule the net results of the altered rates will increase the average cotton rates in the Underwood bill about 5 per cent, the principal changes affecting cotton yarn.

The income tax will also be modified to give mutual life insurance companies an opportunity to claim exemption by proving they are not conducted for profit.

With regard to print paper Senator Johnson's sub-committee has under consideration a plan to leave paper valued at not more than two and a half cents a pound on the free list but in lieu of a proposed countervailing duty to insert a clause which would provide for a duty of $2 a ton should restrictions of exports of wood and pulp in the Canadian tariff not be removed within a stated period, probably a year. The provision would not specify Canada, but that would be the only country affected.

Senator Williams' sub-committee is still working on the income tax and administrative provisions of the bill, but expects to report tomorrow. It has been decided to eliminate the anti-dumping clause and the 5 per cent tariff discount on imports on American ships and some modification will be reached on the provision directing foreign manufacturers to submit their books when valuations are in dispute.

The income tax will also be modified to give mutual life insurance companies an opportunity to claim exemption by proving they are not conducted for profit.

ONLY EASEMENT
OVER THE LANDS

RAILROAD COMPANIES DO NOT
ACQUIRE THE MINERAL RIGHTS.

IS BUYING THE RIGHT OF WAY

Supreme Court Hands Down Important Decision Under the Eminent Domain Statute.

Austin, June 11.—The supreme court today, in an opinion by Chief Justice Brown, holds that railroad companies in acquiring title to land for right of way purposes, secure thereby merely an easement over the property for the construction of its tracks and other facilities in aid of transportation and not to the mineral rights that may be involved, even though title was secured by deed of conveyance in which it is specifically recited that such rights are conveyed.

The decision was rendered in the case of Right of Way Company et al vs. Gladys City Oil, Gas and Manufacturing company et al, on writ of error from the first district court of civil appeals.

Plaintiffs in error claimed title through deed of conveyance made to the East Texas Railroad company in 1881 for right of way purposes. Subsequently oil was discovered on the Gladys City tract and the Right of Way Oil company organized and began work of development. The defendants in error brought suit against plaintiffs in error in the district court of Jefferson county for the mineral rights to the land for damages to the amount of oil extracted therefrom. The district court awarded judgment to the plaintiff in error and on appeal to the court of civil appeals the judgment of the district court was reversed and judgment awarded defendants in error, which judgment the supreme court affirms.

In answering certified questions from the court of civil appeals, first district, in the case of Houston Belt and Terminal company against Jacob Hornberger, on appeal from Harris county, involving condemnation proceedings, the supreme court today held that an appeal from the judgment of the county court awarding damages is suspended by an appeal being taken therefrom and that the court of civil appeals is authorized to issue a writ of injunction restraining the issuance of a writ of possession pending the appeal.

In this case, in condemnation proceedings, the terminal company in the exercise of its right of eminent domain, secured right of way over 75 acres of Hornberger's land. Damages were awarded Hornberger by the county court in the sum of $1,600, from which award Hornberger appealed to the county court, where subsequent judgment for $7,392.50 was awarded. Following this, the county court sustained a motion in arrest of judgment denying the terminal company's right to condemn appellee's property on the ground that appellant not being a common carrier and subject to the regulations of the railroad commission, could not employ the right of eminent domain, and awarded appellee a writ of possession. From this judgment appeal was taken, with the result as above stated.

The judgment of the court is a victory for the terminal company.

IN COTTON MARKET

LESS ACTIVE TONE AND PRICES
EASE OFF UNDER REAL-IZING.

Scattered Selling Is Encouraged by Reports of Clearing and Warmer Weather.

New York, June 11.—The cotton market was just active today and prices eased off under realizing by recent buyers and scattered selling encouraged by reports of clearing and warmer weather in the south. The close was steady but at a net decline of from 7 to 15 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 1 to 6 points in response to lower Liverpool cables. Offerings were not very heavy and reports of low night temperatures in the eastern belt rallied new crop months to about the closing figures of last night during the early trading. Liverpool was a moderate buyer of July, August and October here, but there were rumors that above 12c for July yesterday's cotton, was sold against prospective shipments from the south and the relatively easy ruling of the near months, combined with indications for more reasonable weather in the belt seemed to discourage any important support. The market consequently soon turned easier and prices eased off in the afternoon on Memphis and New Orleans selling, rumors that the south was selling hedges against the prospective early new crop movement in New Orleans and reports that one or two of the local spot houses were selling July again today against possible shipments from points in the Atlantic belt. Closing prices were practically the lowest of the day. Private wires from Memphis reported rising temperatures there this afternoon and it was said that one lot of new crop cotton for July shipment from Galveston was offered in the New Orleans market.

Rumors of a bearish report by a prominent traveling crop expert on the crop outlook between New Orleans and Memphis was a factor on the decline, and some of the selling on the late break may have been encouraged by the renewed weakness of the stock market. Rumors of a private settlement in July were not confirmed.

New Orleans, June 11.—The cotton market was nervous and narrow in the morning session today, with no decided downward movement on selling for both accounts, stimulated by pessimistic reports from the stock market and a general feeling that the market was weak technically as the result of the recent heavy buying. Gossip of the floor said that the long side missed the support that has been coming from the covering shorts.

Many bears claimed that the short interest had been greatly lessened and that the market was actually overbought. The unreasonable weather in the belt and reports of too much rain in a few sections had little influence on prices.

On the opening the tone was steady and prices were one point up to one point down.

Cables were unfavorable but were balanced by the cold and rainy weather map and the forecast of more precipitation to come. In the early trading prices stood 1 to 3 points up. This was the high level of the day.

During the morning the market went 5 to 6 points under yesterday's close. Toward the middle of the day there was a partial recovery, but in the afternoon the market weakened, standing at the lowest at a net decline of 10 to 15 points and closing steady at a net decline of 5 to 15 points.

IN THE GRAIN MARKET

DRY WEATHER SCARS IN SPRING
WHEAT BELT CAUSES
UPTURN.

Shorts Are Driven to Cover and Prices
Are Forced Higher by Aggressive Leadership.

Chicago, June 11.—Important enlargement of investment demand consequent to some extent on the possibility of a dry weather scare in the spring wheat crop belt led to a decided upturn today in wheat. Closed steady at a net advance of 1/4@1 1/4c. Corn gained 1/4@1/2c to 1 1/4@1 1/2c, and oats 1/4@1/2c. In provisions the outcome was the same as last night to 12 1/2c up.

Trade in wheat broadened from the start. Besides the lack of rain in the northwest there was encouragement for bulls in early cheerfulness regarding stocks and because of hints of renewed export inquiry. Aggressive leadership, too, counted a good deal in driving shorts to cover and forcing prices higher. Persistent buying of September wheat for one of the largest houses attracted considerable attention.

Corn finished at the highest level of the session. Lightness of stocks here and damage reports from Central Illinois formed the chief incentive of buyers.

Most of the strength in oats was derived from wheat and corn.

Profit taking by longs restrained provisions from all around advance with grain and hogs. The close was unsettled.

IN STOCK MARKET

EXCITEMENT FOLLOWING RATE
CASE DECISION HAS PASSED AWAY.

Some Progress to Recover the Losses,
but Severe Break Follows at Close.

New York, June 11.—The excitement which attended yesterday's violent break in stocks was absent from today's trading, which was comparatively calm and on a much smaller scale. Some progress was made toward a recovery in the early session, but the effort of this movement was nullified by a severe break shortly before the close. Canadian Pacific was the particular point of weakness, falling nearly 1 point from its high price of the day to the lowest figure since 1911. Steel sold below 50 for the first time since 1909. Union Pacific dropped to 1.37 1/2 and number of lower lows were made with virtually the entire list selling below yesterday's close. Bear pressure was perhaps the principal factor in the breaking which was a disappointment to the traders who believed that a substantial rally was due. This rally was based on a rise in Americans in London, followed by a material upturn at the opening here. Less importance was attached to the Minnesota rate decision as a market factor and there was some disposition to emphasize the points in the decision overlooked at first, which favor the railroads. These considerations as well as the technical condition of the market were effective in supporting the list for a time but it was soon evident there was no sustained demand for stocks, either from investors or speculators and the market gradually lost its strength. Bonds were irregular; total sales, par value, $2,400,000. United States bonds unchanged on call.

LIVESTOCK.

Port Worth, June 11.—On Wednesday the market had the largest number of jackpot shipments to dispose of that has been recently and despite the fact that the trade was active, it was late in the afternoon before the weighing was over. About 4,500 cattle and 1,000 calves were on hand, a liberal crop for the mid-week session. Demand was broad, however, and all classes sold on a fully steady basis. One car of choice beef steers brought $7.75. Some desirable cows in carlots ranged up to $5.50, with half cars as high as $4.10. Odd bulls made $6.00 for a range. Calves sold up to $5.75.

A supply of 2,500 hogs sold to a red-hot demand with an advance of 10 to 15c. Three hogs were in action and the trade was brisk from start to finish. Choice hogs brought $8.55 without any peddling and the big end of the run was called in with a spread of $3.55 to $3.85.

Fully 4,500 sheep and goats were offered Wednesday. About half of the supply was of a stocker sort. Demand was broad from the outset and the market leaned toward slight strength.

St. Louis, June 11.—Cattle receipts 6,000, including 1,000 southern, steady; choice to firm steers $7.25@8.00; good to choice steers $7.50@8.50; dressed and butcher steers $7.75@8.50; stockers $7.25@7.50; Texas steers $8.50@9.00; Texas cows and heifers $6.50@7.00.

Hog receipts 10,000, higher; pigs and lights $7.25@8.55; mixed and butchers $8.75@9.55; good heavy $9.70@9.90. Sheep receipts 5,700, steady; muttons $5.50@5.75; yearlings $5.25@5.50; lambs $7.00@7.40; spring lambs $8.55@9.55.

MAKE SAFETY TOUR

SPECIAL TRAIN OF I. & G. N. WILL VISIT TOWNS ON SAFETY CAMPAIGN.

Reaches Waco June 20—Instruction Will Be Given in First Aid Principles.

Recognizing the value of the "safety habit," and realizing the importance of knowledge of first-aid principles, the International and Great Northern will run a safety-school and exhibition train over its lines commencing June 15. Practically every town on the road will be visited and demonstrations made.

The car, which is in charge of Dr. M. J. Fields, carries representatives of the American Red Cross Society, railroad Y. M. C. A. hospital department and safety committee.

Troupe, according to the schedule, is the starting point of the tour. The train will be there on June 15, after which the rest of the line will be gone over by divisions. The train will be in Waco June 20.

On the special demonstrations will be given of the principles of first-aid to the injured, practical surgery, safety devices and prevention of accidents. While the instruction is essential for the benefit of trainmen, and railroad employees in general, Dr. Fields will extend an invitation to everyone interested to visit the car and hear the demonstrations.

Schedule for the trip of the safety car is as follows: June 15: Palestine, June 15-16; Houston, June 18; Galveston, June 19; Hearne, June 21; Taylor, June 22; Austin, June 23; San Antonio, June 24-25; Laredo, June 27-28; Mart, June 29; Waco, June 30.

DRINK SMITH'S MINERAL WATER.

Which flows from the bowels of Mother Earth a pure, sparkling liquid, mineralized by God's own hand, for the needs of suffering humanity. It cures all manner of diseases, as thousands will testify; and it does not need even "Rochelle Salts" to aid it in performing the magical cures. This water baffles the scientific world as to how and why it acts so. It is one of God's mysteries, and man has only one thing to do—DRINK AND BE HEALED.

Attend the Great Cotton Convention Dallas, July 10-11

It is expected that many thousands of people from all parts of the South who are concerned in a better system for MARKET AND SALE OF COTTON will be in attendance at this convention.

The most vital and important question before the people of the South today is a system for the market of cotton that will bring to the producer the profit that his toil deserves.

This system has been fully worked out by the Southern States Cotton Corporation, and in the acid test of thorough and critical trial it has not been found wanting, because it has already afforded relief to thousands of farmers.

In other words, there is no element of experiment in it. You have only to become identified with the movement—contract your cotton to the Southern States Cotton Corporation and receive in full measure its benefits, which means simply FIFTEEN CENTS FOR COTTON—and nothing less.

DECIDE TODAY TO ATTEND THE SECOND GREAT CONVENTION and get the facts—first hand. Fair Park Coliseum, July 10-11.

Do You Buy Right?

Just now is a pretty good time to ask yourself that question: "Buying Tailor-Made Clothes right" means satisfaction and not price. It means, can you wear it and feel satisfied, a suit without that feeling of satisfaction isn't bought right at any price. Let us make your next suit. Satisfaction guaranteed.
